Legislature Will End Its Session On Wednesday After 3rd Security Vote

Democratic Assembly Leader Steingut Postpones Final Showdown on Governor's Social Security Bill; Assembly Clears Calendar.

3 VOTES ENOUGH

Republicans Rally to Wadsworth Charge Lehman Is Not "Playing Square".

Albany, N. Y., May 12 (AP).—The New York legislature concurred today in a resolution fixing noon tomorrow for final adjournment, after a third and final showdown on Governor Lehman's social security bill.

Democratic Assembly Leader Irwin Steingut postponed plans to bring the program to a test today in the Republican-dominated Assembly, where it had been twice rejected.

Meantime, the Assembly cleared a calendar for local and minor bills in less than an hour and quit for the day.

Both parties in the legislature scrambled desperately today for three crucial votes that will revive or kill Governor Lehman's social security program.

The Democrats were motivated by the chief executive's personal appearance before a joint session last night, in which he attacked the Republican Assembly majority in general and Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth in particular for "inconsistency."

The Republicans rallied to the charge by Wadsworth that the governor was not "playing square," and was deluding the poor and unfortunate into thinking they were going to get security when they are not.

Three votes are enough to swing the Assembly either way, but if all lines hold as they have on two previous tests, the Republicans have enough ballots to keep the social security bill off the floor of the Assembly. Seventy-six are required to get it out of rules committee and up to now the Democrats have mustered 73.

The Democratic-controlled Senate adopted the program more than a month ago, but the Republican Assembly majority rejected it and instead approved its own bill carrying out one of the major provisions—reducing the old age pension limit from 70 to 65 years.

Bitter Criticism

This action brought bitter criticism from the governor last night. "I believe," he said, "that any fair-minded, impartial member of the legislature will agree that the position of the Republican Assembly in approving the part of the eight-point social security bill relating to old age assistance and seeking to defeat the other seven parts is absolutely and completely inconsistent. There is no real difference in principle between them."

Nevertheless, after the governor's address, Republican Majority Leader Oswald D. Rockefeller emphasized: "I don't believe the bill is going to pass. The members are going to assert and reassert their rights as members of this legislature."

Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut differed.

"I am not so sure but that by the time we vote there will be a sufficient number of votes to pass it. They will see the light," he said.

Steingut said that he probably would not move a third time until tomorrow, just before the scheduled adjournment, inasmuch as one Democratic member was absent today.

Governor Lehman criticized Wadsworth repeatedly for giving "public expression to his social philosophy" in a radio address Friday night to the governor's appeal 24 hours earlier for support of the social security bill.

"I believe the position of that spokesman and of the Republican assemblymen and leaders supporting him is absolutely inconsistent," he asserted.

Governor's Estimate

The governor has estimated that the federal government will contribute $20,000,000 annually toward the program, and that the state would be required to raise $4,000,000 to finance its share. This he proposed to provide by a 20 per cent increase in alcoholic beverage taxes.

The governor declared that defeat of the program "will strike against the social philosophy of modern government the most crushing and the most devastating blow within this generation."

Up to Congress

Washington, May 12 (AP).—Capitol Hill sources said today President Roosevelt had informed Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) that it is up to Congress to determine the tax methods of raising the revenue he has requested. The Chief Executive conferred with Harrison yesterday after the Senate Finance Committee had indicated clearly it favored a provision of the House bill to tax corporations on the basis of their undistributed profits.

Wicks Bills Approved By Governor, Permits Referees a School Post

Albany, May 12. (Special).—Governor Lehman has given his approval to the bill of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, amending the Judiciary law to permit official referees also to hold a non-salaried office in the educational system of the state.

Up to the present time, the law provided that no official referee could hold any other office, trust, or practice law, act as attorney or counselor in any court of the state, or act as receiver or commissioner, or unofficial referee in any court. Exception was made, however, in allowing a referee to be a member of a Constitutional convention.

Senator Wicks's bill now becomes Chapter 535 of the laws of 1936.

Judge Hasbrouck and G. V. D. Hutton Are On Education Board

Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck has been appointed a member of the Board of Education to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Louis Beeres. The appointment of Judge Hasbrouck was announced today by Mayor C. J. Heislman. The judge is a well known educator and a member of the board of trustees of Rutgers College and also a member of the board of the New Paltz State Normal School.

The mayor has also reappointed George V. D. Hutton to succeed himself on the education board. Mr. Hutton has been serving out the unexpired term of the late D. N. Matthews.

Both appointments are for terms of five years.

RIVER FISHERMEN ASKED TO REPORT STURGEON CATCH

Sea sturgeon, once so numerous in the Hudson river that they were known as "Albany beef," continue this season to be the subject of a special Biological Survey study, according to the State Conservation Department.

Dr. Donald T. Ries, biologist in charge of the survey, has asked the cooperation of fishermen in the study of the species. Information about the large sea sturgeon is difficult to obtain, Dr. Ries said.

He requested that fishermen making a sturgeon catch notify him at Kingston, or communicate with their local game protectors so that the fish can be examined and photographed before they are dressed for the market.

3 Die in Plane Crash

New Lisbon, Wis., May 12 (AP).—Three persons died in the crash of an airplane in a heavily wooded tract on the Martin Wood farm three miles from here late yesterday. The dead: Herman Underdahl, about 42, North Andrews, Calif., the pilot. Carl Ristow, 29, New Lisbon farmer. Caroline Ristow, 8, daughter of Carl. Underdahl, a retired navy officer here for a visit with Wood, his cousin, had been taking relatives and neighbors farmers on sightseeing flights. According to the pleas of his daughter, Ristow went up to give her a ride. Underdahl banked at an altitude of 300 feet and the plane went into a dive. The pilot and Caroline were dead when neighbors reached the scene. Ristow died in a hospital several hours later. Underdahl flew the ship from Los Angeles.

Senatorial Amendment Lost

Albany, N. Y., May 12 (AP).—The Senate rejected by a strict party vote today the Republican-proposed measure for a Constitutional amendment to make four year terms for senators, instead of two as at present. The action came on a motion by Senator Percy A. Fisher, Watkinson Republican, to discharge Judiciary committee from further consideration of the measure and bring it on to the floor. The Senate took similar action on another Republican proposal providing that no primary ballots shall be printed in the election districts where all nominations or elections of a party are uncontested. Both had previously passed the Republican-dominated Assembly.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 12 (AP).—The position of the treasury May 9: Receipts, $9,343,742.40; expenditures, $14,579,100.47; and balance, $2,415,722.93. Customs receipts for the fiscal year ending July 1, $2,432,245,593.54; expenditures, $4,624,412,244.13; including $2,432,412.08 of emergency expenditures. Excess of expenditures, $2,192,166,649.59. Gross debt, $27,745,066,474.24, a decrease of $204,322,227.22 from the previous day. Gold assets, $19,250,496,447.37.

A highway program for 1936 which calls for the expenditure of $241,621.39 for construction, reconstruction and maintenance of county highways was adopted by the Board of Supervisors Monday evening. The program was offered by the four members who comprise the Rights of Way Committee, Supervisors Cashdollar, Wilkin, Haynes and Heitzman. It was adopted by a vote of 30 to 3.

This money which has been allocated to the various county highways comprises the sum of $140,206.30 which is now to the credit of the County Highway Fund and which includes the sum of $50,000 heretofore raised by tax levy of 1935, together with the anticipated revenues which the county will get from various other sources during the year. These anticipated revenues are the estimated sum of $28,541.89 from motor vehicle license fees, the sum of $102,698.97 which is the estimated sum to be derived from gasoline tax money, the sum of $48,272.10 from the so called Lowman act and the sum of $9,418.27 which is the estimated county share of state aid money.

The allocation of funds and the designation of county highways on which the funds will be spent, was adopted with but little discord.

Supervisor Hulstair objected to the allotment to the town of Kingston and asked on what road the money was to be spent. Told the schedule called for an expenditure of $5,000 on road 75-a, he stated that there was no more work to be done on that road in the town of Kingston. He said 75-a had been completed to the Woodstock line and he suggested that if the appropriation was made to road No. 103 he would not object.

Supervisor Osterhout said that he was going to make no long speech in opposition because he knew it would do no good but he wanted to quote the time honored saying that "to the victor belongs the spoils" and he said that he realized that under the program as presented he was not getting as much as he would if his own party were in power but for the appropriation made his town he wanted to say "thank you boys."

Tutthill Objects

Opposition to the schedule was made by Supervisor Tutthill. He said there was much howling when the table was made up. It was called a "political table" and he said he just wanted to ask the committee which prepared this year's schedule what they called the table this year. His town he said was the second largest in the county and paid a proportionate share of the taxes but he noticed that many towns much smaller than Wawarsing was getting a much larger share of the road money. He closed by saying "Taxation without representation was responsible for the Boston Tea Party so be careful."

Supervisor Wadlin of Lloyd said that as he viewed the table the committee which prepared it had no apologies to make and he failed to see why it might be referred to as a political table as had been done by Mr. Osterhout.

Osterhout replied with a smile that he was thankful for the appropriation which he referred to as "crumbs from a rich man's table."

Mr. Hulstair said if he wanted to put the $5,000 appropriation which had been given to 75-a on road 103 he would not object to the table. Supervisor Cashdollar reminded Mr. Hulstair that there was plenty of work to do on 75-a and Mr. Hulstair said this was not so, not in the town of Kingston, the road had been finished up to Woodstock and beyond.

The vote was then taken and the road program table was adopted as offered.

The sum of $119,000 is set apart for maintenance of county roads already constructed. The resolution also contained the authorization to the county treasurer to borrow the sum of $30,000 in anticipation of the fourth quarter of gasoline tax if the gas tax money is not received from the state in time for use. The entire sum of $20,000 or any necessary part may be borrowed in anticipation of the receipt of the gas money.

Wawarsing Appeal

One other resolution brought forth opposition during the short session. When Supervisor Haynes of Hardenbergh moved that the county attorney be empowered to defend for the board of supervisors the action instituted by the town of Wawarsing to appeal from the assessment laid and the equalization rate imposed by the board on the town of Wawarsing, and that experts and real estate appraisers be hired by the county in the proceeding, four towns were cast in opposition. These who voted in opposition were Supervisors Andrews, Hulstair, McDowell and Osterhout. The resolution of Supervisor Haynes authorized the hiring of necessary real estate experts and appraisers to appear in behalf of the board to testify to values in the assessment.

Mrs. Alice Stoll Praises Federal Agents, Is Calm On Robinson's Capture

District Attorney Gardner, at Louisville, To Demand Death Sentence, If Robinson Chooses to Stand Trial for Kidnaping.

"HEINOUS CRIME"

Six Federal Agents Await Arrival of Plane Bearing Kidnaper from Glendale, Calif.

Louisville, Ky., May 12 (AP).—Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, socially prominent Junior Leaguer who was kidnaped for $50,000 ransom, praised Department of Justice agents today on the successful climax of their 19-months-long hunt for the will o' the wisp fugitive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr.

Her husband, Berry V. Stoll, young oil company executive, said she took the news of Robinson's capture calmly at their home on Lime Kiln Road from which she was abducted October 10, 1934.

He quoted his wife as saying she was "very glad." He added, "My wife is delighted over Robinson's capture just as I am."

As Robinson's arrival by airplane from Glendale, Calif., in custody of federal agents was awaited at Municipal Airport, U. S. District Attorney Bank Gardner announced he would demand the death penalty if the defendant chose to stand trial on the kidnaping indictment.

"The crime was a most heinous one," said Gardner. "I think there is no question but that the death penalty should be inflicted. That has been my opinion all along. I have no reason for changing my mind."

In event Robinson pleaded guilty, the district attorney said he would confer with Department of Justice men upon the government's course.

Robinson was expected to reach Louisville some time before noon (Central Standard Time). Six federal agents were at the airport.

From Federal Judge Elwood Hamilton came the announcement that "the court will be ready as soon as ready" to try Robinson. He added, "There is no need to call a special session. Under federal law, the court term is continuous from one term to the next."

Gardner said Robinson probably would be arraigned this afternoon or tomorrow and if the defendant pleaded innocent the government would seek a trial as speedily as consistent with preparation of its case.

Praise of Department of Justice agents' work came from other members of the Stoll family.

Flying Shackled

Albuquerque, N. M., May 12 (AP).—Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., hunted since 1934 as the "will-o-the-wisp" kidnaped of a society matron, was sped through here in shackles by airplane today toward Louisville, Ky., where the government may wipe clean his "public enemy" list with a death penalty.

Captured in Glendale, Calif., last night, Robinson was held aboard a chartered (TWA) airliner in handcuffs and leg irons while it paused here en route to the scene of the $50,000 abduction of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll.

Just as the details of Robinson's apprehension were surrounded by mystery, elaborate precautions were taken to veil the flight in secrecy.

Even the lights in the plane's passenger quarters were shut off save for a flare of a moment when the 29-year-old captive, last of the big quarries of the "G" men, was visible.

Sitting by a window, he stared straight before him—his face expressionless.

One agent was a seat behind, three others flanked the prisoner on the opposite side as the plane refused.

The airliner cryptically listed the special plane as "Flight Elixir" in its operations calendar and so referred to it in radio messages. The number was an obsolete schedule. The plane ran slickly behind a regular passenger ship.

When its wheels touched ground here at 2:23 a. m. (Mountain Standard Time) a department of justice agent alighted, refused to answer any inquiries and obtained six lunches in boxes and four vacuum bottles of coffee. The plane was on the ground for 21 minutes and a stop.

Middle Village Man Stopped at The Diner for Breakfast and Helped to Purse Containing $27—Money Recovered—Other Police Court Cases

August Berker, 27, of Middle Village, Long Island, employed on a truck from an out of town florist concern, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail this morning when arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court. Berker had been arrested on a charge of petit larceny lodged against him by Officers Barmann and Straley of the police department.

Early this morning police headquarters had received a telephone call from The Diner at 713 Broadway, that a pocketbook containing $27, the property of William P. Scullery, employed at the restaurant, had been stolen. The two officers in the radio car responded to the call and arrested Berker. They then searched him but he did not have the pocketbook on his person. The officers then searched the truck where they discovered the pocketbook hidden with the contents intact.

The other man on the truck, which was loaded with potted plants for a summer home at Phoenixia, said he did not see his companion steal the purse from the restaurant and he was not held.

Italy's League Delegates Quit Geneva on Mussolini's Orders

(By The Associated Press)

Italy's delegates to Geneva, maintaining their "reborn" Afro-European empire permits of no League of Nations meddling, announced today they were going home.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, apparently on orders direct from Premier Mussolini, informed the League secretary-general of his intentions.

Just previously, leading League council members had drafted a tact condemnation of Italy's annexation of Ethiopia. Their resolution, product of a midnight meeting at which Italy was not represented, stated the council needed time to reflect on a proper course.

Just what the sudden Italian decision meant was not immediately clear. Even Baron Aloisi, H. Duce's No. 1 diplomat, admitted: "I do not know."

Yesterday, following hints that Italy would bolt the League rather than discuss its conquest in the presence of a council representative of Haile Selassie, Aloisi walked out of the opening council session.

"Italy is Sovereign"

He declared there was no sovereignty in Ethiopia save that of Italy; no government save that of "Emperor" Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy.

Hence, he said, he could not discuss the matter in the presence of Wolde Mariam, "the so-called delegate from Ethiopia."

In Rome, reliable sources said a diplomatic break between Italy and Great Britain could not be avoided if the British continued to press for sanctions at Geneva.

Dino Grandi, Fascist ambassador to London, was reported under orders to try and make Great Britain "like" the Ethiopian annexation.

In Ethiopia, Fascists hinted the coronation of Victor Emmanuel as emperor of the primitive country might take place at the Holy City of Axum, sacred seat of the "true" Ark of the Covenant and the Ten Commandments.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, H. Duce's son-in-law, stepped down on Addis Ababa with his "destiny" air squadron to start on his new job of minister of peace and propaganda.

He will help Victor Mitterrand spread the tidings that Victor Emmanuel is the one and only emperor. Plans and native rumors, opposite extremes in communication, will be used to distribute the proclamation.

Unconfirmed Report Spreads After Machine Gun and Coat are Found Near Erie Railroad Tracks Close to Swamp.

PLANE IS USED

Middletown Police, Deputy Sheriffs, Troopers, State Plane Join Search for Robbers of $13,000.

Middletown, N. Y., May 12 (AP).—A report was received here today that the State Police thought they had located the four Pine Bush bank robbers hiding in a swamp, five miles from Middletown.

The unconfirmed report spread soon after troopers found a sub-machine gun near the tracks of the Erie railroad, close to the swamp.

Troopers said this apparently was the weapon used in the $13,000 robbery at the Pine Bush (N.Y.) National Bank yesterday.

One man was arrested last night when troopers trapped the holdup men's car, forcing four of them to flee into the woods. Another man and the sum of $2,972 was found in the car, troopers announced.

The fugitives were still believed to be armed with pistols used in the holdup. The swamp mentioned in the report was surrounded by about 60 Troopers, as well as Middletown police and deputy sheriffs. A state-owned airplane joined the search overhead.

The report was given to a reporter by one of the searchers. At the same time, however, the sheriff's office in Monticello checked a rumor that a suspect had been arrested at Rousea Gap, eight miles from the scene of the search.

Believed Hiding

Searchers said it was possible the men had "holed up" in a cave, or under leaves. One of them was believed to be wounded.

Thirty troopers searched all night and today, under Lieutenant Walter Reilly, the force was doubled. Six bloodhounds were put into the area.

The conservation department sent its plane, piloted by Albert Leow, Wolf, into the search. It circled the swamp repeatedly.

Meanwhile a second car which the bandits used in their escape was found near Pine Bush, 30 miles from the scene of the search.

State police found the car (Buick sedan) under a farm shed seven miles north of Howell. Several paper money wrappings lay on the ground near it.

A finger print expert from Troop K, Hawthorne, immediately began an examination of the car.

Troopers who found the sub-machine gun and a gray overcoat along the Erie Railroad tracks near Howell and said they apparently were discarded by four men sought in the $13,000 hold up of the National Bank at Pine Bush yesterday.

The troopers immediately tightened the cordon of armed men surrounding the area.

Search Narrowed

The search was narrowed to a three-mile woodland area around Howell, which is five miles west of Middletown. Meanwhile they checked trains to determine if the four could have boarded one and escaped.

Sergeant E. J. Hulse, of Troop C, state police, found the sub-machine gun, a 25-shot weapon, under a bush along the railroad embankment.

The coat lay in a pool of water 500 feet farther along the right of way. The manufacturer's tag bore the name of Ben Roeker, New York city, the coat was badly torn at the bottom.

Overcoats were worn by the robbers when they entered the Pine Bush bank. Weapons were concealed under the coats.

Middletown police sent reinforcements to assist armed troopers in the search. Police said one of the men was wounded.

Assignment of a dozen Middletown officers to the hunt brought the force of armed searchers to about 100. Of these 50 are state police, equipped with pistols. Four bloodhounds were put on the trail.

While the search pushed forward on a five-mile front, near here, a man described by troopers as Stewart Wallace, 36, alias Walter Murphy, was held in jail. Slightly wounded he was captured last night when troopers trapped an automobile on a back road. Four other men fled through a farmyard into the woods.

Lieutenant George Scarle of the state police said $2,972 was found on a seat in the car.

Troopers also said they thought the men were the same who held up a bank at Port Jervis, N. J., April 30.

"Chuckling and Laughing"

Miss Florence Taylor, 21, who witnessed the escape of the men after the Pine Bush robbery, said they were "chuckling and laughing" as they left the bank and took an automobile.

But at least one of them was wounded, and apparently wounded, troopers said, when the fugitives

Fay Webb Seeking Friendly Divorce

Los Angeles, May 12 (AP).—Rudy Vallee's former "dream girl" steered their broken romance toward a divorce court today to make final their disagreement of three years ago.

Fay Webb, dark-eyed daughter of the Santa Monica police chief, charged the curly-headed orchestra leader with cruelty in a complaint preceded by what her attorney, Ben C. Cohen, termed a "satisfactory and amicable adjustment of their financial affairs."

Cohen said Vallee would not contest the divorce.

The suit virtually ended a five-year story of marriage spotted with bickering, alleged boy friends and girl friends, fond occasions of making up again and renewed farewells.

The couple's difficulties reached a high point soon after their separation in April, 1933, when Mrs. Vallee sought to have voided an agreement under which she received $100 a week.

Against testimony that Vallee misrepresented his financial condition when his wife signed the agreement, his counsel at that time sought to show that she was indiscreet with Gary Leon, broad-shouldered adagio dancer.

The divorce suit made no mention of any other woman in Vallee's life, nor of the dancer. In a separate maintenance action later dropped, Fay had charged her husband with misconduct.

Mrs. Vallee's attorney said those difficulties have been forgotten and the divorce is wholly friendly.

Takes Stand In Action Brought By Her Son

Mary J. Kelly took the witness stand Monday afternoon and testified in the action brought by her son, Hubert J. Kelly, Jr., against Mary J. Kelly, an action brought to set aside a deed of conveyance to the Sun-Ray Dairy Farm property in Ellenville, and also in an action for ejectment brought by Mrs. Kelly against her son.

Mrs. Kelly testified that title to the property had been given her son by a deed some time ago. She told of her leaving the farm and taking up her residence elsewhere after her husband had threatened her. She said she had not been back to the farm except on one occasion when she went to get some clothing since the day she left, after her husband had threatened her with an axe.

Testimony was given indicating that there had been prior trouble in the household and that Mrs. Kelly had divorced her husband several years ago but that she had remained in the home after that. Mrs. Kelly denied having urged Hubert to deed the property back to her and said this was done on January 2, last, only after he had called her on the telephone and asked her to come back to the farm. Mr. Kelly said he had also asked her to come back but she had refused. Later Hubert asked her to have a deed prepared transferring the farm back to her and after repeated urging she had done so. She denied that she had used any influence over him and said that it was done at his own urging.

Hubert J. Kelly, Jr., has testified that he had been threatened with harm if he did not deed the farm back to his mother and also that threats had been made against the property and his cattle, and that as a result of this he did deed the farm back to his mother. This was denied by Mrs. Kelly and also by Judge Schoonmaker. The judge testified he was in his office when Hubert J. Kelly, Jr., came in the court house in Ellenville and asked the judge to acknowledge the signature on the deed. Schoonmaker said he had acknowledged the signature after he looked over the paper and saw it was a transfer of property. He absolutely denied and called an "abominable lie" the statement made by the plaintiff that he, the judge, had threatened harm to the plaintiff. Hubert J. Kelly, Jr., if he did not sign the deed, Kelly had testified that it was at the request of the judge and after threats that he signed the deed.

Young Kelly on the stand testified that there had been threats to send him to a "crazy house" if he did not comply with the request to deed the farm back to his mother. This was denied by the mother, who said the acts on the part of her son had been voluntary and that she had not urged him to transfer title back to her, but that the initiative had been his.

LeRoy Lounsbury appears for the plaintiff, Hubert J. Kelly, Jr., and Edward Baker for the defendant, Mrs. Mary J. Kelly.

Hindenburg Points Out Over Atlantic

By GEORGE HEWLETT
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lakehurst, N. J., May 12 (AP)—A new "Hindenburg Line" was being drawn today—but this Hindenburg was a silver queen of commerce, and the line was being drawn across the skies between Lakehurst and Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany.

With 48 passengers aboard, the huge Zeppelin which spanned the Atlantic so swiftly last week, lifted her stubby nose toward stars that studded a cool spring night, made a hurried courtesy call on New York city, and then headed out over the Atlantic.

The Hindenburg was starting the return journey of the first of ten round trips planned for the summer between Germany and the United States—trips which Dr. Hugo Eckener, president of the Zeppelin company, hopes will bring the establishment of a permanent German-American commerce in the North Atlantic skies.

The airship lifted gracefully from the sandy surface of the Lakehurst naval air station at 10:27 1/2 p. m. (eastern standard time), headed into the southerly wind for a mile, circled eastward and then pointed its silver nose to the north.

Within an hour it passed over New York. From there its course followed the great circle route, the shortest path to Europe, over the Atlantic.

Its officers were hopeful of reaching the home port at Frankfurt-on-Main in six or seven hours under the record time of 61 hours 57 minutes it established on the westward trip which ended here at dawn Saturday.

The airship carried 1,751 pounds of mail and 2,384 pounds of express. It small greased spots occur on silk materials, as quickly as possible cover with talcum powder and let stand 2 days, then brush off with clean stiff brush. Very simple and yet very effective.

Martin Opens Suit To Collect 97 Million

New York, May 12 (AP)—James V. Martin, inventor and manufacturer of airplanes, began suit in United States district court today in an effort to collect $90,000,000 damages from 37 corporations, four co-partnerships and 28 individuals.

He alleged they had violated the Sherman anti-trust law. Among the causes of action which Martin, who has filed other patent suits against numerous defendants, set forth was the allegation that a bombing plane he designed and built was destroyed "by incendiary darts."

Destruction of the machine his suit attributed to a "corrupt plot" to which he alleged certain of the plaintiffs were parties.

Negro Is Killed In Escape Attempt

New York, May 12 (AP)—A negro arrested by a probationary patrolman during a holdup today was shot and killed when he attempted to escape.

Marion Housman, the officer, reported he found the negro attempting to rob two men who had shouted for help. Housman ordered the negro into a taxicab but when the other men protested against going along to the police station, the negro leaped from the car, struck Housman and ran from the holdup scene at West Farms Road and East 147th street, the Bronx.

The patrolman fired when the fugitive failed to obey a command to halt. He was identified tentatively by a chauffeur's card as William Johnson, 24, of 1414 East 167th street, the Bronx.

Nature's Mischief

The New Zealand kiwi (properly called apteryx; kiwi is a native name) is one of nature's misfits. It is a bird but cannot fly. It has feathers but they are so incomplete they have the appearance and feeling of coarse hair.

Kiwis have beaks similar to elephants' trunks. They are flexible, extremely sensitive to the touch. Nostrils at their tips detect worms when touched, although the birds may be thrust their entire bodies into the ground. The mother kiwi lays huge eggs, usually two of them. Each weighs about a quarter of the mother's weight. The male does most of the incubating. Young kiwis are born at most mature.

Government retrenchment, and the adoption of a plan looking toward the earliest possible balancing of the distorted budget, would do more than anything else in the way of reducing unemployment and the widespread investment of capital. Every citizen who wants a job and savings and real security would benefit.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The decision of Secretary Morgenthau to appear before the senate finance committee and state his views on the pending tax bill, after he had absented himself from Washington while the house ways and means committee was considering the measure, occasioned no little comment among politicians in the capital.

Yet to those who know the treasury secretary intimately the situation was easy to understand.

One of Morgenthau's secret dreads is having to appear before a congressional committee in an official capacity. Especially is this true as regards the ways and means committee when as controversial a subject as new taxes is involved.

Charged by the constitution with the responsibility of originating all legislation affecting revenue, the 18 Democrats and seven Republicans who comprise that committee are among the shrewdest and most hardboiled men in congress. A member of the cabinet or anyone else, for that matter, appears before that group at his own risk.

Senators More Dignified

IN THE senate finance committee it's a bit different. The going is not so rough. There's an atmosphere of dignity there, which is far different from the rough and tumble debate which prevails in sessions of the ways and means committee. Aside from Morgenthau's personal aversion to making appearances before congressional committees, he probably more than any other member of the President's official family, must be the most careful as to what he says.

As the nation's chief finance officer, every word he utters, whether it be in a carefully prepared statement or in response to sudden questions posed at him, are immediately seized upon by dramatic and other interests—sometimes with devastating effect.

Criticized For Absence

MORGENTHAU'S failure to appear before the house committee is explained by leaders in various ways. The explanation most generally accepted is that he considered the bill so technical that he thought it best to leave the explanation to his experts in the treasury. After all, the bill does contain 42,000 words and covers 24 years.

There is little doubt, however, why he did not appear before the senate finance committee. It is a matter by the committee leaked at him in connection of the measure as being "among those conspicuous" absent from the house hearings.

Richard T. Jones, the editor, was also bowing to his favorite sports.

Dr. Colbert Goes On Trial At Shanghai

Shanghai, May 12 (AP)—Dr. John Colbert, one of the best known American physicians in China, went to trial in United States District Court here today on a charge of attempting to murder his young fourth wife—a case as mysterious and obscure as the Orient itself.

The 50-year-old doctor, smilingly protesting his innocence, sat side by side with the wife he is accused of trying to poison.

District Attorney Feltham Watson accused him of a slow and scientific campaign to kill her.

Dr. Colbert taught medicine at Mackenzie College, in Brazil, served as a physician in Puerto Rico, New Mexico, Colombia, France, Japan and Manila.

On September 23, 1935, the district attorney declared, Dr. Colbert observed that his wife appeared unwell. That was the day after she had won a championship tennis match.

The physician, Watson asserted, examined Mrs. Colbert and pronounced her 40 per cent anemic.

Then, the district attorney continued, Dr. Colbert "began a series of unprecedented purchases of poisons."

Dr. Colbert called into consultation a British doctor, J. W. Grice, on October 31, the prosecutor asserted, and he discovered symptoms of poisoning.

Dr. Colbert was arrested last December 25, at Pientain, by British police at the request of United States consular authorities. He has been free on bail of $25,000 gold.

Under the extra-territoriality granted Americans and other foreigners in China, accused United States citizens are tried by United States federal courts.

INDULGING CRIMINALS

It isn't only sentimental pardon boards that err in over-lenience with dangerous criminals. Often prosecutors and judges seem pliant or un-intelligent. The most striking ex-ample recently has been that of Florence, the New York murderer who brutally killed Mrs. Lewis Til-terton and was caught by a mag-nificent piece of detective work. Florence three years ago stole an automobile and was caught and tried for it. Such theft is grand larceny, involving a heavy penalty. He was allowed, with the consent of judge and prosecutor, to plead guilty only to petty larceny, and then the judge suspended sentence.

A few months later he was ar-rested for burglary, and again allowed to plead guilty to a less serious of-fense, and was sent to prison for a few months. Shortly after getting out, in the summer of 1934, he stole another automobile, and again there was the same old hocus-pocus of pleading guilty to petty larceny. This sort of thing is usually at-tributed to the "laziness" of pro-secutors. It is harder to get a conviction on a serious charge. And so this legal farce proceeds, while criminals go from worse to worse.

CORNUED BEEF TRAMPONS

Jimmy and Billy did their cooking on a range on the stage of the club house along with other amateur cooks of the same dish and in the awesome presence of Oscar of the Waldorf and his assistant chef. Dur-ing the cooking these authorities wandered about sampling the other entries—cakes and candy and a very nice soup. But they kept coming back to the corned beef and cabbage pots on the huge stove with appraising eyes. Finally the finished prod-ucts were ready to serve. Solemnly the famous chefs tasted, considered, tasted again. Then they gave the corned-beef-and-cabbage victory to our young heroes.

Boys who cook are sissies? Think again: On Washington's birthday Billy won a hori-cise-splitting derby. They can play ball and wrestle and all the rest. Cooking is just a hobby. A creative sideline, with these boys, but a darned good one.

CREATING NEW JOBS

Scientific research seeks new uses for money and new work for men, says Charles F. Kettering, research director of General Motors. He dis-agrees with the people who think re-search is useful mainly to reduce the man-hours of labor required by existing processes. If that were all, there would be some justification for the anxiety about technological un-employment. But research does, and should do, far more than that.

New products, new projects, new types of industry, brought forward by scientific research, would go far toward putting idle men and women to work. They would reduce relief to a normal minimum. Education has a part to play here, too. It should train young people to look about them and to recognize for themselves new opportunities for work and service. They should not reach their majority thinking that all opportunity is in the past.

FOOD AND ECONOMICS

The Health Committee of the League of Nations, composed of 12 nutrition experts from six continents, reports that the diet of the average person in nearly every country is deficient in vitamins and minerals, after all.

The committee presents specimen diets for children and for different age and occupational groups. Doubtless the world's eating habits can be greatly improved by education. Knowing the nutritional values of different foods helps the intelligent housewife to plan well-balanced meals. But that is only part of the world's diet problem. There are economic hurdles which have to be surmounted before the people on or below the poverty borderline can eat as the nutrition experts say they should. Fresh fruits and fresh vegetables and milk are not available to large numbers of people in American cities simply because they cost too much for very slim incomes to buy. The world food problem is mostly economic. When the employment and distribution shortcomings of so-ciety have been ended, diet improve-ment will take care of itself.

TWO MEN AND A MATCH.

A gasoline attendant in Newcastle, Pa., was badly burned and an auto-mobile was wrecked by a lighted match thrown into the tank when he was filling it. The news account says that the match was "tossed by two men," probably curious to see what would happen. They were ar-rated and charged with the deed, and both denied it.

Two men tossing a match with such unerring aim would make an interesting performance, quite aside from the explosion. One man might do it—but two?

The only certainty about it is that throwing matches, or even lighting matches, around a gasoline station or an open gas tank, is very bad busi-ness.

HEART CASES IN OPERATION

Although deaths whilst under an an-aesthetic are now very rare, every an-aesthetist, surgeon and physician is alert and very watchful before, during and after an operation.

It is to prevent accidents during the taking of an anesthetic that the an-aesthetist is usually admitted to hospi-tals. In the previous days he had an examination of heart, blood pressure and urine can be made.

One of the dangers that is always in mind is that a patient may over-react to an anesthetic and die. This is considered a serious risk during the an-aesthetic.

It is interesting therefore to read in the Archives of Surgery, Chicago, of the study made by Drs. J. Hickman, H. L. Livingston and M. E. Davies, Chicago. They followed during a period of two years the history of 336 patients with heart disease who had undergone operation.

Since there were only six deaths due to heart disease and two to lung disease that could be linked up in any way with the operation and an-aesthetic in the 336 patients who underwent 345 operations (a death rate of about 2 per cent), it shows that, as a group, patients with heart disease are fairly good surgical risks.

Angina pectoris (the severe pain under breast bone due to it is thought to lack of oxygen in the blood going to the heart), coronary occlusion (when the blood vessel or vessels helping to bring blood to the heart, muscle gets blocked), decompensa-tion (when the heart muscle has not the power to pump the blood prop-erly), hardening of the arteries, and thyroid poisoning (poisoning of the heart muscles by the excess amount of thyroid juice from the thyroid gland in the neck), are, in the order named, the most serious diseases of heart and blood vessels with which physicians have to deal.

These physicians state further: "Contrary to the belief of many medical writers, inhaling the an-aesthetic, particularly ethylene-oxygen an-aesthetic, is safe when a high percent-age of oxygen is used and asphyxia (suffocation) or struggling is avoided. Ethylene-oxygen and local an-aesthetic gave the most satisfactory results in the 336 cases above men-tioned."

"The use of spinal ether or nit-rous-oxygen an-aesthetic increased the amount of complications which occurred after the operation."

These findings in such a large number of heart cases should be re-assuring to heart patients who have to undergo operation.

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HONISTON

SYNOPSIS: Although it is Ru-pert Joris who has married the mysterious Hope Lewis very sud-denly, it is Rupert's brother Dirk who seems to feel most responsible for her. Now, returning late from the theater, he sees Hope take a taxi to the gates of the Joris estate and drive into New York, meet a strange and foreign-looking young man, and disappear in New York City. He is determined to find out what has happened to her.

Chapter 18

AMATEUR DETECTIVE
 HOPE did not come down to break-fast, and Rupert had already left when Dirk, later than usual, started for the office. Dirk, having, with mixed motives, taken on him-self the office of spy, visited Rupert's room before leaving, as he had vis-ited Hope's the night before.

Hope might safely have brought the gems back with her, but he had no way of looking in the cache this morning. There was a chance that Rupert had them now, in that case, he knew where to look.

He found the jewel-box in the inner drawer of Rupert's desk, the strand of pearls lying loose beside it, the contents intact. Hope's com-panion had not robbed her, nor per-mitted her to be robbed.

Hope, herself, when he saw her that evening, seemed much the same—a bit tired, for, as she explained, she had been shopping again. She said Rupert had lunched together. They had also looked at cars, and they had a disagreement regarding them. Rupert wished her to have a town-car and a chauffeur. Hope wanted a coupé, and to drive it her-self.

"What do you think?" Rupert asked Dirk at dinner.
 Dirk was in favor of the chauffeur. Hope's eyes met his with the shadow of surprise. Apparently she had ex-pected him to take her side.

She had shown no inclination to confide in him, though there had been opportunity. Before dinner Dirk had sat with her in the library. She had shown him the guitar she had bought that day, had played and sung for him. He would not soon forget the picture.

He had not known the room could be so beautiful. The presence of Hope had seemed to draw out its latent colors, to warm and kindle it. And now she filled it with song.

Her voice had for Dirk the dis-turbing quality of her eyes. A rich voice, liquid and warm and deep. She sang plaintive things, a little dark-haired Lorelei, in a blue dress, in the freight. Dirk had not let the vision, the song, lure him to com-plete forgetfulness.

He said, when she had stopped singing, and sat plucking cords, looking at the fire—said with every intention of disturbing her:
 "I saw you last night."

She gave him her swift dark glance, and he added:
 "At 'The Black Swan.' You looked wonderful."

Her eyes went back to the fire. She asked:
 "Was that Isabel beside you—the one in pink?"

So she had seen him, too. And who had told her about Isabel? Ru-pert, no doubt.

Yes, it was Isabel, he said. "She wants to meet you. I waited around last night after I got home. Wanted to ask what you thought of the play. You must have got in first."

She said that she was not sure. At any rate, she had been sleepy, and had gone straight to her room. Which was no doubt true.

RUPERT came in the library then, and must be shown the new guitar, must be sung to. She sang again in Spanish, the most tender, the most passionate of all her songs. Her eyes moved now and then to Rupert's face, ecstasy and pathos in her glance.

Rupert liked the song. He asked what the words meant.
 "It is a song," she said, "about a little turkey."

Dirk laughed outright, feeling a distinct relief. He supposed it, of course, a love-song. Rupert too laughed, asked her to sing again. She sang a cowboy song, swinging and vaillant, tapping her small blue slippers foot. A song full of life, of fire, of a girl's love, of a girl's love, of a girl's love.

At dinner it was learned that Elmer had called that afternoon. Elmer and her aunt, Mrs. Rabeurn, Isabel's mother. No one had been at home, and Elmer had left a note. She wished to give a party for Ru-pert's wife. Would dinner a week from Thursday be agreeable?

Hope passed, tomorrow, through a difficult situation.

GERMAN HOTEL PROFITS CREDITED TO NAZI RULE

Berlin (AP)—Hotel operators have national socialism to thank for re-nounced prosperity since 1932, accord-ing to semi-official announcement.

In 1932, says the source, their ag-gregate turnover was $1,640,000,000. By 1934 it had increased by $80,000,000.

Another $120,000,000 was added in 1935, according to the announce-ment, coinciding with momentum gained by the Hitler regime.

At the same time bankruptcies de-creased from 245 in 1932 to 93 in 1935.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Adaptation

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
 Mrs. X was born of her oldest son, Sam. He always stood well in his class, and brought home prizes and honors every term. Richard, on the other hand, was a constant source of humiliation and embar-rassment to his parents, for he was generally at the foot of his classes, and frequently flunked a course en-tirely. Richard was not lazy. He worked harder than Sam did, but without results.

That Sam was unusual and un-popular with his classmates, poor in sports, awkward with his hands, did not trouble his father and mother. They had all kinds of ex-cuses for such deficiencies. Further-more, the public satisfaction of class-day exercises, with Sam lead-ing in scholastic work, was suffi-ciently gratifying to compensate for all his shortcomings.

That Richard was popular, a good athlete, adept with tools and ma-chinery, gave his parents no pride. It was his very obvious lack of in-tellect which they looked upon as a public disgrace.

Had Richard been of the gloomy or timid type, he might have be-come discouraged or melancholy, and either left home or retired into ill health. Fortunately he was a sanguine disposition. He finished school as best he could, refused out-right to go to college, and entered the business world instead. Here his ability to mix with people and his practical skill stood him in good stead, and he turned out a valuable member of society.

Success and happiness do not de-pend primarily on brains, but on the adaptation of one's personality and character to the kind of life for which they are suited. "One cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" is an old adage supposed to ex-plain the silliness of the expense of the coarser material. But pig-skin in the right place is quite as valuable as silk.

Spanish War Veterans Hold Annual Banquet

By FRANK M. WINCHELL

Under the direction of David H. Winter, commander, the 25th annual banquet of Colonial Camp, No. 75, United Spanish War Veterans, was held at Torriano's Inn Saturday night.

The camp members and invited comrades from other jurisdictions assembled at the Municipal Auditorium promptly at 5 p. m., where many cars were waiting to transport them to the inn.

Arriving at the inn the veterans assembled at the festive board, and having dined properly and well were treated to a rare epic symposium, under the direction of the one and only "Bill" Merritt, the official toastmaster.

Mr. Merritt introduced as the first speaker Captain Joseph E. Roach of Albany, past department commander for New York state. Comrade Roach related many interesting personal experiences and also gave much valuable and timely information in regard to securing pensions and increase of pension.

The next speaker was Comrade Clarence W. Burke of Schenectady, junior vice-commander for New York state, who entertained the veterans with many humorous and witty reminiscences and interesting stories of camp and active field service.

Former County Judge Joseph M. Fowler delivered a spicy and telling speech, bristling with the usual Fowler pungency and force. The camp members and Ulster county appreciate both Judge Fowler's legal and military services.

Peter J. Halloran of Kingston, vice president of the 1st New York State Regiment, gave a very instructive talk on matters pertaining to individual regimental service during the Spanish-American war. Much enthusiasm was aroused by Mr. Halloran's capacity to build up and enlarge the general usefulness of various ex-service men's organizations for the benefit of the veterans.

Walter E. Van Alstyne of Bridgeport, department adjutant, U. S. W. V. for Connecticut, spoke very feelingly in regard to all ex-service men and the Spanish-American War veterans in particular, stressing their united peace time efforts in upholding and advancing American principles and institutions.

Fred E. Lyons, adjutant of Bishop Camp No. 3, Bridgeport, Conn., a former member of M. Company, 10th Regiment, New York State National Guard, spoke very pleasantly of his former residence in Kingston and his lifelong interest in the city.

Warren Dietz, past commander of Bishop Camp, gave a spicy and interesting address on the duties of ex-service men as peace-time citizens. The members of Colonial Camp

Growers Approve Miss New Zealand

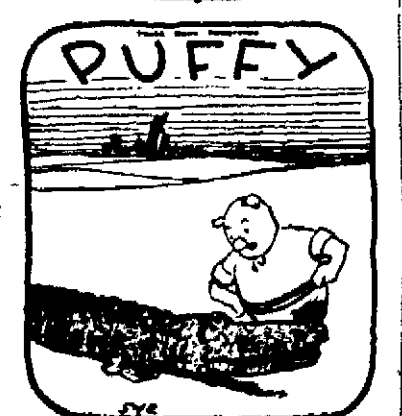

Ithaca, N. Y., May 12.—Miss New Zealand seems to be the most popular variety of gladiolus that many growers plan to raise this year, with Takina, another New Zealand product, a runner-up on the list of 1936 favorites, says Dr. A. M. S. Pridham of the New York state college of agriculture.

Miss New Zealand comes to the United States "with a remarkable reputation for size and beauty. Its color is a smoky shade of rose with deeper throat marking. This variety, however, has performed rather uncertainly in American gardens. The majority of the flowers have been grown from small bulbs, and this year will either make or break popular interest in this variety."

"Takina's color is an odd shade of purple. This variety is reputed to be the largest flowered gladiolus in existence."

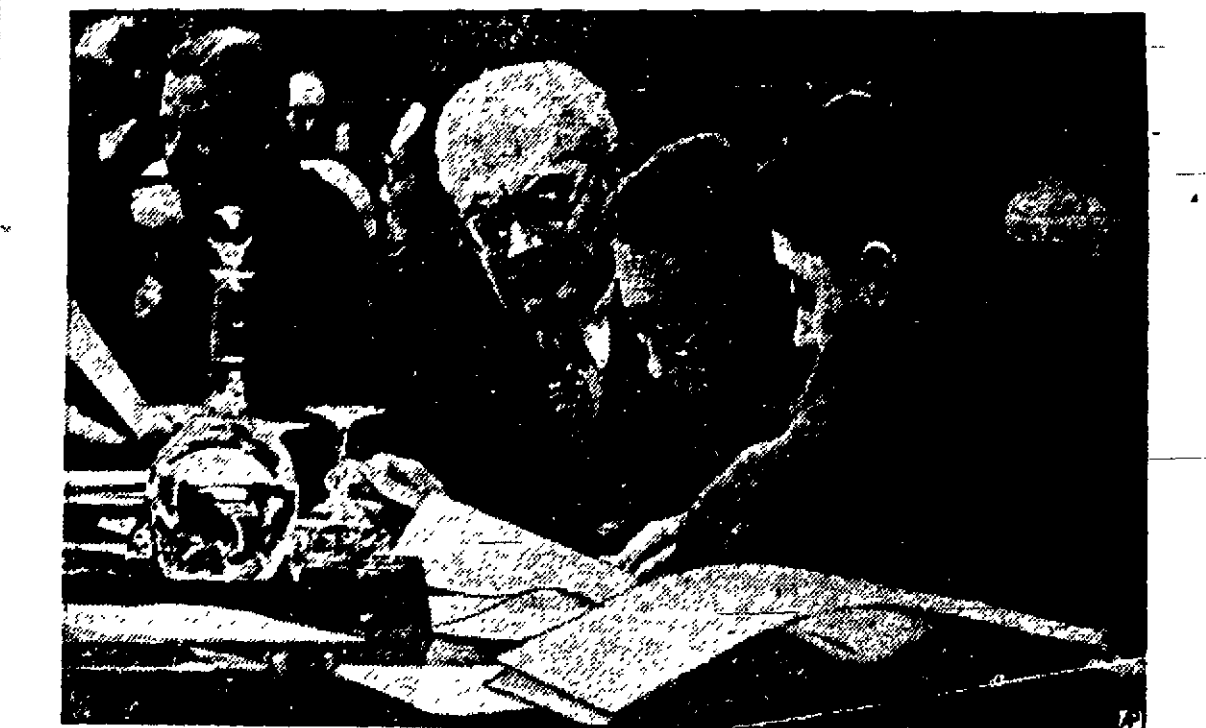

"Third place in popularity goes to Star of Bethlehem and to Golden Goddess. The former is a recent introduction from Germany, creamy white in color, and has earned an excellent reputation in New York state gardens."

"Golden Goddess will be remembered as the first gladiolus to be patented. Three spikes were exhibited at the 1925 exhibition of the Empire State Gladiolus Society in Ithaca. The spikes arrived by air mail, and in spite of the long three-day journey, they attracted much comment. The variety is golden yellow and has flowers of graceful form."

"We'll take you along, for a few days at least. You don't need to weep and you don't need to beg. But promise you won't take a bite of my LEG!"

Revamping of Geneva's Aims Held Possible After Ethiopian Conquest

League of Nations delegates concentrate on the problems of sanctions, whose failure to halt Italy's conquest of Ethiopia has made the League's future uncertain.

With the League of Nations trying to decide what to do about the conquest of one of its members, Ethiopia, by another, Italy, the organization itself again becomes one of the outstanding problems for world diplomats. What has the League accomplished? What has it failed to do? Has it met the ideas of its founders? These questions are discussed in a series of three daily stories, of which this is the first, by Joseph E. Sharkey, chief of the Geneva bureau of The Associated Press, a veteran foreign correspondent who has been observing and reporting international affairs for nearly 30 years.

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.

Geneva (AP)—"Stock taking" days are upon the League of Nations and the balancing of strong points against weaknesses, of past successes against present failures, admittedly reveal needs for revisions of policy, for substitutions in the line of goods offered over the international counter.

Primaries in Four States Hold Interest of Nation's Politicians

Suspect Behind Bars

James H. Folsom, 35, is shown in jail at Augusta, Me., as he awaited arraignment after Sheriff Henry E. Burnell announced he confessed slaying Mary Proulx, 1, whose ravaged body was found at Waterville, Me. Police said he also admitted killing Annie Knights, 12, at nearby Fairfield. Ohio—State-wide primaries of both major parties to name delegates to the national conventions and select complete slates of candidates for state, county, legislative and judicial offices.

West Virginia—State-wide primaries of both parties to pick convention delegates, and candidates for state offices and senatorial nominations.

Delaware and North Dakota—State conventions to select Democratic national convention delegates.

Vermont—State convention to pick Republican convention delegates.

Ohio Central Theater
By LEONARD B. SHUBERT
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, May 12 (AP)—Ohio's broad political arena, scene of preliminary skirmishing for many months, today became a central theater of operations for warring factions of both major parties.

Observers in the capitol awaited the results as voters of the fourth most populous state balloted in the Democratic and Republican primaries. The total vote was expected to approximate 1,350,000, a record.

In addition to presidential entries there were complete slates for state, legislative, judicial and county offices.

On the Republican side the prime struggle was the presidential contest between Senator Borah of Idaho, and Robert A. Taft, "favorite son" choice of the Buckeye State's Republican organization.

"Favorite Son" Entry
The "favorite son" entry was assured at least 17 of the 52 convention delegates because Taft was entered in all districts, while Borah forces were entered in only 35 contests.

On the Democratic side President Roosevelt was opposed by Henry Breckinridge of New York, who previously lost to the Chief Executive in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Breckinridge seeks only presidential preferential votes and is not entered against the President in the separate balloting for national convention delegates.

Borah also is entered in today's West Virginia primary election, which is expected to bring out 400,000 voters because of a struggle between the state's two Democratic senators, Rush D. Holt and M. M. Neely.

Borah's only opponent there is Leo J. Chassee of Milwaukee, Wis. On the Democratic side President Roosevelt is opposed by Joseph A. Contemmaro of New Hampshire.

Besides the ballot box tests, there were several other political developments.

Colonel Frank Knox of Chicago carried his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination into Oregon last night and assailed the New Deal.

Secretary Roper, in a radio address last night appealed to business to avoid "rituperation" and to discourage "all efforts to create unjustifiable political friction" during the presidential campaign.

Aside from the primaries, today's activities included Democratic state conventions in Delaware and North Dakota and a Republican convention in Vermont.

Both parties held conventions yesterday in Wyoming.

The Democrats instructed their 12 delegates with six votes to work for the renomination of President Roosevelt, while the Republicans chose an uncommitted delegation.

Bobby went to church with his mother one night. A bald-headed man with long whiskers sat in front of them. "Mother," the little fellow whispered, "does that man have his head on upside down?"

Destroy the Tent Caterpillars Now

Now is the time to destroy the tent caterpillar, according to Dr. R. D. Glasgow, state entomologist of the New York State Museum. These insects are with us again, spinning their webs in the forked branches of their food trees. Soon these trees will be stripped of their leaves; and later, even for months after the caterpillars have disappeared, such trees and the landscape of which they are a part will be disfigured by the filthy webs of this abominable pest.

Doctor Glasgow explains that insect pests are studied minutely in order to find the weak points in their life cycle; for an insect pest may usually be controlled most simply and at the lowest cost by striking at its weakest point.

The State Entomologist points out that tent caterpillars may be killed by stomach poison sprays applied to the leaves of the trees on which they feed; but it is usually considered too expensive to spray all of the wild cherry trees and related food plants of this insect along fence rows and in waste lands just to protect the beauty of the countryside. Bounties have been offered for egg masses of the tent caterpillar collected by school children and other in fall and winter; but at best enough egg masses will usually be missed to provide a normal population of the insect for the following spring. Some have advised cutting out all food trees of the tent caterpillar; but this would destroy an abundant and valuable source of food for our song birds.

The really weak point in the armor of the tent caterpillar, says Doctor Glasgow, lies in its habit of feeding on the leaves at night and then assembling during the day in colonies of several hundred caterpillars each, inside the webs or "tents" they spin in forked branches of their food trees. These webs are easily seen; and here, the caterpillars seem almost to invite extermination.

Tearing out the webs, however, will only scatter the many surviving insects; while burning the webs with a torch is likely to damage the trees, and may fail to kill all of the caterpillars.

The most complete, the simplest and the least expensive control of this insect may be accomplished when the caterpillars are inside their conspicuous webs or "tents," by spraying the webs with a penetrating contact insecticide that will strike through the protecting web and wet the bodies of the assembled insects with the poison spray. A man with a small portable knapsack sprayer, or compressed air sprayer equipped with double or triple the usual length extension rod, can very quickly and easily destroy great numbers of the caterpillars since it is necessary only to wet the webs thoroughly with the spray.

The spray mixture found most effective is made as follows: Buy a commercial stock solution of Derris extract in miscible pine oil, containing one half of one per cent rotenone, or rotenone at the rate of one part in each two hundred parts of the stock solution. (Rotenone is one of the more important insect killing substances in the dried roots of the Derris plant.) Mix this stock solution with water at the rate of one gallon to make 50 gallons of the dilute spray.

The pine oil is particularly effective as a wetting agent for carrying the poison through the web; and this spray mixture should be harmless to the trees, and harmless to higher animals when applied as directed. If difficulty is experienced in buying this standard spray material, a list of manufacturers from whom dealers may secure it may be obtained from the New York State Museum, Albany, N. Y.

The earlier this work can be done the better, says Doctor Glasgow, for the nests will be smaller, and the caterpillars more easily reached by the poison spray.

It's hard to tell, from current views, whether prosperity has been nipped in the bud or just reined in.

'IDEAL' MOTHER IS HONORED

Dairymen's League April Price

New York, May 12—Members of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., delivering milk at Poughkeepsie will receive $1.375 per 100 pounds for 3.5 milk delivered during April, according to an association announcement today. The net pool return for April at the 201-210 mile zone is $1.50 per hundred-weight. Milk of more than 3.5 per cent butterfat receives a premium. Other differentials are also added to the base price in most sections for plant volume and other services.

Other nations are still trying to enlarge their real estate holdings. Uncle Sam's trying to unload his.

Property Destroyed

195 Albany Ave.
Kingston, N. Y.
May 11, 1936

To The:
Honorable Conrad J. Heiselman,
Mayor of the City of Kingston and
Honorable Judge Bernard Culliton,
City Judge,
Kingston, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

I wish to publicly thank and commend you for having evinced such official interest in the recent recurrence of vandalism on my property and having come to inspect the wreckage in person.

I wish, at this time, to compliment Sergeant Phinney of the local police force for his splendid work in the apprehension of the culprit. I want to take exception to the wording in the article in Saturday's Freeman in which the writer alluded to the offense of the many young people involved as "mischief." In my dictionary, the wanton destruction of a house, actually tearing it to pieces and burning it for the sheer pleasure or satisfaction of destroying, without the remotest benefit to be derived therefrom, is termed arson and vandalism.

I wish to publicly invite the honorable members of the Common Council and the Board of Education and all principals from the schools for whom it will be a great subordination of the morale of many young people in the schools. I would like to have the children and parents of children, implicated or not implicated, come and see this work of destruction. It is inconceivable that boys, not yet in, and in their early teens could derive any satisfaction from literally destroying a house. The majority of people will be inclined to believe that this is grossly exaggerated and that the damage is much over-rated but upon viewing the debris themselves, will be completely convinced and declare it outrageous that such conduct on the part of mere children in the city of Kingston should be allowed to go on unhampered by their parents and that such "mischief" should be tolerated by any taxpayer in the city.

Previously, I pleaded with the courts not to take too drastic action against such offenders, but to parole the condemned as I did not want to subject the mothers of the children to any further ordeals, or to destroy their future, but now I feel justified that some action should be, and will be, taken to prevent further occurrences of this sort of vandalism, and once again thanking you for your personal interest and cooperation, I remain

Yours very truly,

S. ABRAMOWITZ,

Two River Steamers Resume on Wednesday

Trojan and Renascence Go Into Commission That Day, Plying Between Albany and Troy and New York—Towing Heavier Than Last Season.

The steamers Trojan and Renascence of the Hudson River Navigation Company will resume trips for the season between Troy, Albany and New York on Wednesday. These steamers do not stop at Kingston, but the steamers Odell and Poughkeepsie of that line, running between New York and Albany, are making regular stops here.

Rivermen said today that river towing this season is much heavier at this time than it was for the same period last year. Brick, stone and other products are being shipped by barge to the New York market.

The tug Empire of the Cornell Line, which sank while being coalged at the Cornell docks on East Strand, is being repaired at the Hiltabrant shipyard at South Rondout. The tug was badly damaged when it sank. It was raised by a wrecker from the Merritt, Chapman Company of New York.

There are still danger spots for navigation at the mouth of the Rondout creek as the result of the flood of March 12, when all of the boats in the Rondout Creek were swept out to the mouth of the creek when the ice went out. There are at least four sunken vessels in the line of the navigating channel. These wrecks have been marked with buoys, and maps showing the location of the wrecks have been furnished river pilots by the government. The wrecks are old, abandoned hulks of barges that were swept off the lowlands by the high water during the flood in March.

Parole Officer Coty Beaten Up

Everett Coty of Ellenville, parole officer at the Napanoch Institution for Male Delinquent Inmates, sustained a broken nose and lacerations when he was attacked by two prisoners when he was bringing to Napanoch.

The men were Anthony Rappo, 24, of Brooklyn, sentenced in 1932 for armed robbery and Vincent Volk, 23, of the Bronx, sentenced in 1932 for burglary, both being charged with having broken their paroles. Coty had driven the men from New York and was about a mile from Napanoch when the two men, who were in the rear seat, handcuffed together, attacked him. Coty got free and out of the car and with assistance overcame the prisoners. The men will have to answer to the grand jury.

LEGION JUNIOR AIDES WILL MEET THURSDAY

There will be a regular meeting of the Junior Aides to the American Legion Auxiliary on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Memorial Building on West O'Reilly street. Miss Barbara Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Matthews, has been elected Junior leader. The group has been showing much enthusiasm and is planning a program of activities. Already they have been busy with the collection of coupons so helpful in the assistance of the Veterans' Mountain Camp at Tupper Lake. They are studying the Preamble to the Constitution and at the meeting on Thursday each member will present an article of interest concerning the flag of the flag.

MAY 15, DEAD LINE FOR CCC CAMP ENROLLMENT HERE

At ERB headquarters today it was stated that there was room in the CCC camps for some more youths from this city. Boys who are eligible for enrollment should register at the ERB headquarters on or before May 15, which has been set as the dead line for registering boys for camp.

THISTLE, BURNHAM & CO. 42 Broadway New York

New York, May 12 (AP)—A little profit taking entered the stock market near the start of the final hour today and early gains of fractions to around 2 points were halved in many cases.

The trading pace throughout was extremely slow and numerous issues were about unchanged. Among the better performers on the advance were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Can, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Continental Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Union, Montgomery Ward and American Smelting. The majority of the utilities and rails slipped a shade either way.

The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

4 Bank Robbers Hiding In Swamp

abandoned their car in the farm-yard lane and plunged away into the darkness.

A few minutes earlier they had turned into a back country road 30 miles from the looted bank with a state police car close on their heels. Then two other trooper cars, directed to the spot by radio, appeared from the opposite direction. The fugitives swung into the farm lane and leaped from the car.

Several deputy sheriffs and the district attorneys of Ulster and Orange counties joined the posse today.

Took Only 5 Minutes

In a bold daylight robbery, five armed bandits stole $12,000 from the Pine Bush National Bank, Monday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, just before the institution was to close for the day.

The robbers took only about five minutes to collect the booty, then dashed out of the community of Pine Bush which is just across the Ulster county line, a few miles from Wallkill.

An army of state police and deputy sheriffs, called by police alarms, surrounded Pine Bush and vicinity shortly after the stickup. They searched and scoured the region and last night about 10:30 shot one of the alleged bank bandits.

He gave his name as Walter Murphy, but mentioned no address. He is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has sandy hair streaked with gray. His left hand is amputated.

District Attorney Cleton B. Murray left for Middletown, where Murphy was being held in custody, last night after receiving word of his capture, to question him. The district attorney said he would endeavor to link the bandits with the New Paltz Bank robbery.

Followed by 4 Men

John McEwen of the G. L. F. store at Pine Bush, one of the depositors in the bank at the time of the hold-up, told a Freeman reporter yesterday afternoon that he was followed into the bank by four men. They ordered "hands up" for everybody as soon as they entered.

"I was locked in a little side room with another depositor, an elderly man I didn't know. Then we were forced into the safe with Ted Weller, the cashier, and his two other bank workers, Louis Gussalus and Frank Burger.

"The robbers were in the bank only about five minutes. Neither I nor the other depositor was robbed. I had about $250, mostly in checks, though."

Find a License Plate

The robbers made their get-away in what was described as an old Buick with red wheels and a trunk on the rear. They sped out of the village over the Red Mills road at a rapid rate. In the dash they lost a license plate.

A woman residing on the route of the get-away heard the plate clatter on the road, as the bandits sped on in their car which had been stolen in Newark. It has been learned. She picked up the New Jersey plate and gave it to Corporal Norman Baker of the state police a short while after, when he passed by on the trail of the robbers.

Those on Hunt

Bedside Corporal Baker other state troopers from this vicinity on the hunt for the robbers were Sergeant James Cunningham, Sergeant John Hopkins, Sergeant Lockhart, Ray Dunn, Joseph McGarvey, Walter Keefe, Arthur Reddy, Andrew Kieta and Lyn Baker.

Sheriff Abram F. McLaughlin with Detective Clayton Vredenburg and Arthur Brown also were on the hunt, being among the first to arrive at the scene of the beginning of the chase.

The robbers abandoned their old Buick and held up a party in a Plymouth, taking this car, somewhere in the vicinity of Wurtsboro. The state police took up the trail of the car and in a gun battle that lasted all along the road almost to Middletown, riddled the bandits' machine with bullets.

Car Abandoned

On a dirt road near Middletown, the bandits abandoned their car and tried to make a get-away on foot through the woods. It was here that Murphy was shot by Trooper Flynn of an upstate patrol. He was seriously wounded, however, according to reports and was able to talk to the police. The robbers left $2,972 of their loot in the car.

District Attorney Murray, informed that Murphy had been shot, hurried to Middletown to question him in the hope of linking the quintet of bandits with the New Paltz robbery. Employees of the New Paltz Bank probably will be taken to Middletown to identify Murphy.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Little sister follows ensemble trend.
Liana Merwin

With ensemble and suit fashions quite the rage in grown-up clothes, little sister follows the trend. Many smart two-piece suits have shown in sizes from seven to 12 and now these new summer cotton ensembles are being designed for warmer days.

From all indications pique will be a favored wash fabric in both women's and children's fashions this season. Not only does it come in clean, crisp-looking white, but in peach, aqua, French blue, bluish pink, lilac and maize.

The child's summer ensemble pictured here is designed in sizes ranging from two to 12.

The pink pique fitted, full length coat is double breasted. Pearl buttons are its only trimming, making it very practical and simple to launder. Sheer white dotted swiss makes the adorable dress with its pink organdy ruffles matching the coat color. The crisp ruffles edge the neck and armholes. The dress has a back tie belt. This costume comes in all the pretty shades already mentioned with the dress trimming harmonizing with the color of the coat in each case. However, some other equally sweet models used a matching flowered dimity for the dress.

Wild Flowers Should Be Better Protected

"The preservation of wild flowers is a problem which should be thought of in connection with the effect that wild flowers have upon the forest as well as their aesthetic values which are very important to a large number of our citizens," says Dr. Vernon A. Young of the Department of Forest Botany, New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, N. Y.

"There are two principal causes for the destruction and rapid disappearance of wild flowers," says Dr. Young. "One is grazing by farm cattle and the other excessive picking by automobile travelers and hikers. It is rather an expensive thing for the owner of a farm woodland to fence off an area into which the cattle or sheep could not penetrate just to save wild flowers, but over-grazing is almost as detrimental to the forest as to the flowers and probably in the end would be good economy in many cases to exclude farm animals from small woodland areas."

Dr. Young states that "a moderate picking of wild flowers is not harmful but persons, who usually go into the forest do not restrain their desires and pick all the flowers in a certain area and in many cases destroy their root systems. In the forest, flowers bloom in three seasons," says Dr. Young. "One group blooms in the spring before the shade is heavy in the forest, the second group belongs to the summer season and thrives under the shade of foliage and later the autumn flowers appear when the leaves are aging and slowing up tree growth."

Dr. Young points out that the preservation of wild flowers of the forest is very important from the public viewpoint. Records of the great army of visitors to the forests and parks show that there is more interest in nature trails than in any other single park feature and flowers are usually a large factor in nature trails. Flowers are a benefit to many forms of wild life and last but not least they are part of the normal forest family and oftentimes essential to a continuous reproduction of full sized, healthy forest trees.

According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters spontaneous ignition is one of the leading causes of our tremendous annual fire loss. Yet a little information in the hands of the property owner enables him to easily banish this intruder. The most common causes of spontaneous ignition fires are cleaning mops and cloths, floor cleaning compounds, paint-stained clothing and rags and oily waste. It takes but little imagination to picture the serious fire that can develop if a pile of paint-stained clothing or rags is left lying alongside of cans of paint in the basement, an empty room or a closet. When flames spring up the paint itself will be involved.

HIGHWAYS and BUYWAYS

THE advertising columns of this paper are the highways of commerce. There you will find the products and services of firms who are glad to place their goods on display where the greatest number of people can find out in the shortest possible time whether those goods are worthy or not.

True, sometimes you can find good values off the highway—among the "unknowns" and the "just-as-goods." But why take the risk—when you can use the advertisements as a dependable guide to value, and save a lot of time in the bargain?

When a manufacturer places himself on record in the printed page, he is forced to guarantee you consistent quality and service—or the disapproval of millions quickly forces him out of the market. That's why you have such a friendly feeling for old and well-known advertised names—you know you can depend upon them.

Zeppelin Hindenburg Affords Luxuries

By HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr.
Last night it was the coveted privilege of the writer to go on board the new monarch of the air just before the Hindenburg left for its return flight to Frankfurt in Germany.

At the Lakehurst Naval Air Station crowds swarmed about the hangar, but only a handful of visitors were permitted to join the newspaper men in a brief and thrilling tour of the ship's interior.

Jonah in the whale never enjoyed the luxuries that the 48 passengers, now well over the Atlantic, are believed to be thrilling at during the last half of a widely heralded voyage.

Inside the ship brought to mind a gigantic hotel reduced to scale. While the cabins, containing two berths, washing facilities, and cupboard space, were relatively small, they are nevertheless finished with air conditioning, electric light, hot and cold running water, which is limited, and other comforts for the passengers.

The smoking room, bar, and card rooms are adequate and most comfortable looking. The dining saloon is spacious as is the general assembly room. There is a promenade deck which affords ample room for exercise.

As we walked into the belly of the ship by means of a lowered trap stairway several of the crew were walking about on the first floor inside. Their footstep was not unlike in sound of squirrels in one's own attic, and to passengers who entered later when the ship was on the field they must have had a feeling of being at home.

Treading on the floor gave a sensation that was like walking on the halibut skin which forms the outer wrapper of the hydrographic bags. However, this material is not easily punctured, and the finest pointed heel that ever graced the shoe of a chorus girl would not dent the floor.

The lettering of the name "Hindenburg" in old English print, painted on in scarlet, stood out against the silvery sides of the airship as we viewed it within the hangar.

Five circles in as many colors interlocked are painted on either side to show the emblem of the 1936 Olympics that are being held in Germany this summer.

The writer's mother, Mrs. Hollister Sturges, of Stone Ridge, is a passenger, and will act as correspondent for the United Press Association during the return flight. She left in a most cheerful spirit, and declared to reporters that her return to the United States would be in sharp contrast to her mode of departure.

"Perhaps I will return on a submarine," she advised, "at least on the cheapest ship afloat."

Several friends motored or flew from New York to wish her bon voyage and happy landing.

Returning to New York City, having left the naval station before the Hindenburg cast off from its moorings, our party caught just one glimpse of the airship over the great metropolis as we emerged from the Holland Tunnel. Like all about us, we stopped and peered from the car windows to see it stream out over the Great White Way and were partly deafened by the din that enthusiastic New Yorkers set up.

Twice police officers stopped the writer to point out the vessel in the sky and each time came a thrilled reply, "my mother is on board."

One policeman appeared to share the sense of thrill, the other entirely disbelieved the story and queried if the head were all right.

Flood, Epidemic, Six Deaths at Fort Yukon

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 12 (AP).—A flood emergency at Fort Yukon, aggravated by an outbreak of influenza already responsible for six deaths, was reported to the News-Miner today in a radio dispatch.

The whole town, 150 miles north-east of here, was flooded by an ice breakup yesterday and the airport also was under water, preventing relief by plane, the newspaper's Fort Yukon correspondent said.

Although the water was receding, there was further danger from ice gorges in the Yukon and Porcupine rivers, the News-Miner learned from its correspondent, Mrs. Emily Randall, wife of a deputy U. S. Marshal.

Nobody was drowned as the water rushed through the remote town, Mrs. Randall said, but food, ammunition and household goods were ruined and the influenza situation was more critical.

Names of the victims, including natives and whites, were not reported.

Return From Conference.
Chiropractors John L. MacKinnon, 28 Main street, and William H. Pretsch, 72 President's Place, returned late last night from New York City, where they were attending a three-day post graduate course in sacro-occipital technique. There were nearly 200 chiropractors in attendance. The lectures and clinic work under the personal supervision of Dr. De Jarnette, Nebraska City, an internationally known chiropractic authority. The new methods of measuring and correcting body and spinal imbalance and quicker relief of acute pain are the result of years of research by Dr. De Jarnette and his associate. The new work requires accurate instruments for the measurement of spinal imbalance and of the correction produced by each adjustment and both offices will shortly be completely equipped with this new apparatus. Both Chiropractors Pretsch and MacKinnon have resumed practice at their usual office hours.

The new charges were contained in indictments returned by a federal grand jury here yesterday. Ahearn and Margolis are in jail at Schenectady, awaiting trial on previous income tax evasion charges.

Scout Camp Group Completing Plans

The Camp Committee of the Boy Scout Council of Ulster and Greene counties are fast completing their plans for the coming summer, particularly as regards the big summer camp. Fred Van Voorhis, chairman of the Camp Committee, announced today that the camp staff is being secured as rapidly as possible and up to today the following have been secured:

The camp will be under the direction of L. M. Cahill, physical director of Saugerties schools, who has directed the camp for the past six years.

The water front will be in charge of Roy Rathgeb, formerly of Highland and now a medical student at Long Island University. Mr. Rathgeb is a junior in the medical college and is a qualified Red Cross instructor, and has served at Camp Half Moon several years ago.

The nature instructor of the camp will be Dean Shoup, who is a student at New Paltz Normal and formerly of Albany. Mr. Shoup is the acting scoutmaster of the New Paltz Scout troop and has had considerable experience in nature lore and the teaching of same.

The village leaders for the coming year will find Carleton Upright, scoutmaster of Wallkill and physical director of the Wallkill school, will be in charge of the Camper Village. This will be Mr. Upright's first summer in the big camp but he has had considerable experience in camping as a Scout and as a student.

The Indian Village will be in charge of Frederick Freer of Walden and at present a student at the New Paltz Normal. Mr. Freer has been a Scout, reaching the rank of Life Scout, and he has been active in his troop work for many years.

The Pioneer Village of the camp which will be for older boys only will be in charge of Jack Kickham, formerly scoutmaster of the New Paltz troop and teacher in the New Paltz High School, and at present instructor in the high school at Westbury, L. I. Mr. Kickham has been a leader in the camp for many years and has proved one of the most popular of all the men. This will be most welcome news to older Scouts, who will camp in the Pioneer Village and will assure success in this department of the camp.

The rest of the camp staff will be selected and announced very shortly. The various Scout troops throughout the two counties in their advance information about their troop and camp indicate that many will show considerable increase this year.

All registrations for the camp should be received at the council office before June 1 in order to receive the lower rate. Scoutmasters are urged to make sure of this.

Secure License To Drive by May 31

Albany, N. Y., May 12.—Unless every motorist who is a resident of this state is relicensed in the next three weeks he will not be able to drive a motor car legally after May 31. Operators and chauffeurs are familiar with this requirement, but many put off relicensing until the last day, subjecting themselves to the annoyance which usually is caused by confusion and congestion in every issuing office of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Nearly 3,300,000 motorists must apply for new licenses before the beginning of June. Even with additional offices and augmented forces of clerks and cashiers, unless applications are received before the last few days of May delay is inevitable.

Charles A. Harnett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, urges licensees to use the mail service. If an application blank properly filled out is mailed to any issuing office of the bureau, with the stub of the current license and the fee, by check or money order—not cash—a new license will be promptly mailed to the home address of the applicant.

The new licenses will be honored by police officers during the remainder of the month and until the close of the next license year, May 31, 1937.

The Story behind the "INVERTED FLAME"

GENERAL ELECTRIC engineers have designed a new type of oil-burning furnace that burns oil more efficiently... more economically.

This new G-E Oil Furnace utilizes a newly discovered "inverted flame" principle of burning oil. Every drop of oil is shattered into millions of tiny particles before it enters the burner nozzle. And the vaporized oil enters the furnace as a gentle, quiet mist. This produces an inverted "white-hot" flame and effects complete combustion.

Every particle of the oil is burned... and burned without soot, or soot, or odor. And every practicable unit of heat is captured and put to work.

Don't fail to see this amazing oil furnace with the magical "inverted flame". If you can't call, write for free booklet "Luxurious Heat", which describes its marvelous features.

Georgia Herrick Had Narrow Escape

Sunday during the excitement of the passing of the outboard racers on the Hudson river Georgia Herrick of 317 Lucas avenue had a narrow escape from drowning and received a rather unexpected opportunity to show her ability as a swimmer. In company with her father and a friend they had taken a 16 foot speed boat from Tucker's Beach at Port Ewen and driven up the river to watch the passing of the speed boats. While viewing the racers near the center of the river they saw a flock of geese coming down the river near where they had been stopping. In order to get out of the way and give the geese a clear course the speed boat was set in motion and as Mr. Herrick swung the little speed boat around to clear the course Georgia was thrown from the deck. Although clad in a slicker in addition to her other clothing she was able to swim back to the boat and the boat was returned to Tucker's Beach. The fact that the boat put in to the beach of Port Ewen led many people who witnessed the affair to believe the girl lived there.

Professors at Purdue Put Meter on Readers

Lafayette, Ind.—Some people can separate good readers from poor readers merely by watching how rapidly the pages of a book are turned, but a group of Purdue university professors, Dr. C. Trumble of the education department and R. R. Townsley of the electrical engineering school discovered that excellent readers absorb material in the terms of phrases, good readers in terms of words, and poor readers, who often take 300 times as long as the highest classification, spell out each word, letter for letter.

Another Ellenville Action in Court Here

At the conclusion of testimony this morning in the Kelly case which had been on trial in supreme court for the past few days, the matter was taken from the jury and the jurors discharged. Justice Foster will decide the matter.

Another Ellenville action was then taken up for trial. It is the negligence action brought by Jack Morantz, as administrator of the estate of Diana Morantz, an infant, against Dr. Andrew Green Ford, John Bonomi appears for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for the defendant.

This action arises out of the death of the five-year-old Morantz girl who was struck on November 2, 1935, near the corner of Center and Market streets in Ellenville, by one of the Ford milk trucks and fatally injured. Mr. Morantz was at one time a butcher in Ellenville and Dr. Ford is the proprietor of the Ford Sanitarium at Kerhonkson and operates a milk business in Ellenville.

Plaintiff contends that the driver of the truck was proceeding west over Center street on the Saturday morning of November 2, last, and that at the time of the accident William Wescott, not the regular driver of the truck, was operating the vehicle. It is contended that the truck was driven through a red signal light at the junction and struck the child just beyond. The plaintiff alleges that Wescott, who lives in Nanaucho, was not in the employ of Dr. Ford at the time and that at the time of the accident the truck was being operated at an excessive speed. It is admitted that Wescott was driving the truck but the defendant's contention is that he was a competent driver who had been hired by the regular driver to assist him on the milk route. The defendant alleges that permission was given the driver, Archie Hall, to hire an assistant when needed and that Wescott was acting in that capacity on the day of the accident. Mr. Hall was in the truck at the time of the accident.

The defendant denies that the truck was being operated at an excessive speed and claims that when the milk truck came to the corner the light was red. The truck was stopped by the driver, who waited for the green, to show. Another truck coming in the opposite direction was waiting across the street. When the light turned green the driver claims he started his truck and was still in second gear when the little five-year-old girl ran across the street from behind the other truck and directly in front of the Ford truck. The accident happened about 70 feet from the intersection and not at the cross walk, the defendant claims. That the speed was not excessive it is alleged will be shown by the fact that the truck was stopped within 12 feet and when it came to a stop the child lay between the front and rear wheels of the truck on the left side. The left front wheel had passed over the body and death was almost instant.

5 People Testify Volckmann Sane

Catskill, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Five witnesses testified today in the five-weeks' old murder trial of Alfred Volckmann, 28, for the slaying of nine-year-old Helen Glenn, that they considered him rational.

They were called in the state's rebuttal effort to strengthen its contention that Volckmann was sane and sane.

The first of the witnesses, the Rev. Ira M. Stearns, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Catskill, said he had met Volckmann prior to the crime and considered him rational.

Similar testimony was given by Fred Carpenter, Greenville farmer, and Lynn B. Wessels and Alfred W. Halick, Greenville business men.

Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson, coroner, testified that Volckmann "walked, talked and thought correctly". The coroner said that after the crime Volckmann "said he wanted to commit suicide because he knew he had done something terrible."

Seized in Hotel

Robinson, whose frequent use of feminine attire as a disguise was believed to have led to his capture, was seized in Glendale Hotel about 7:30 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time) and offered no resistance although he was armed with a .38 calibre pistol.

J. Edgar Hoover announced the capture in Washington, saying Robinson had on him $4,560 of which $4,200 was from the $50,000 ransom paid in the abduction of Mrs. Berry V. Stoll of Louisville. During the past two months, the chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said, Robinson had used the name of "John Simons."

In Louisville, District Attorney Bunk Gardner said he would seek a death penalty for the former law clerk and "we also will be prepared to fight a possible defense plea of insanity."

Although Robinson was believed to have operated alone, federal authorities in California refused to confirm or deny that they were seeking a woman, and possibly one or two men, who may have accompanied Robinson to California.

Visits to Drug Store.

Robinson's visits to a drug store in Pasadena, Calif., were credited with putting the man hunters at his heels.

About six weeks ago a woman clerk in the establishment reported to a police a person dressed in feminine apparel made a purchase at the place—a person she thought resembled Robinson despite the manner of dress.

Then, about two weeks later, Lynn Allen, a soda fountain attendant in the place, told police a mysterious-looking person entered the place. Although in women's garb, Lynn said the person spoke in masculine voice and mumbled words.

"Then I noticed that her wrists were thick and her neck was manly, and I made up my mind the person was a man," Lynn added. "I told the Pasadena police about it and also gave them the number of a new sedan in which he drove off."

Silver Cup Awaits Eckener, Publicity Too

Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, May 12 (AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener's name crept back into Nazi newspapers today and district party leaders here announced they intended to present him with a silver cup when the Zeppelin Hindenburg returns from its inaugural North American flight.

There were indications that America's rousing reception of the veteran zeppelin builder and his crew helped Eckener to regain favor in at least part of the Reich.

An official welcome planned in Frankfurt, moreover, was seen here as probably a step toward a complete reconciliation of Eckener's differences with the Nazis.

New Giant Zeppelin Is A Flying Palace

Details of Her Luxurious Equipment Revealed for First Time

By Latimer Shaw

LUXURIES such as sky travel. There have never enjoyed before are contained in the new 804 foot Zeppelin, the Hindenburg, world's largest airship, whose May 31 departure from her home nest at Frankfurt am Main for the great naval dirigible hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., stirred the interest of the world.

On board, as commodore of all the Zeppelins was the veteran Dr. Hugo Eckener, the most renowned and experienced pilot of all lighter-than-air liners in actual command of the Hindenburg was Capt. Ernst A. Lehmann, a pupil of Dr. Eckener since 1915. The Zeppelin carried a crew of more than 50 picked men. Her voyage marked the beginning of the first regular transatlantic passenger and freight service by air.

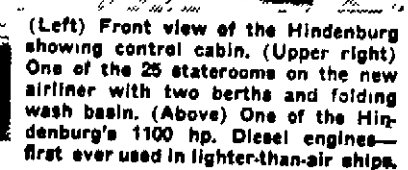

Nothing approaching the comfort of the Hindenburg has ever before been envisioned for aerial voyaging. In 25 luxurious state-rooms she carried 50 passengers twice the capacity of her illustrious predecessor, the Graf Zeppelin.

Imagine hot and cold running water on an airship! This is supplied from a folding washstand in each cabin. Every passenger sleeps in a soft individual bed. The ship is liberally equipped with baths and there is a commodious dining hall where guests dine and watch the surface ships pass underneath. A long enclosed promenade deck gives a perfect view of the sea and sky panorama. And a complete electric kitchen assures flavorful hot meals.

A great novelty on the Hindenburg is a fireproof smoking room with doors opened only from outside or by the steward's push button inside to prevent passengers from carrying lighted cigars and cigarettes to other parts of the ship. A comfortable library with modern books is another feature. In addition to ten tons of mail and packages, the new airship carries two tons of drinking water, two tons of service water, six tons of water ballast and sixty tons of fuel and five tons of Veeco oil lubricating oil. Her lifting capacity in the air comes from 7,063,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas in 16 separate cells. The ship weighs 430,950 pounds and carries a total payload of 41,990 pounds.

The eyes of the engineering world are on the Hindenburg's engines and their lubrication because she is the first lighter-than-air ship to be equipped with Diesel oil burning engines, of which she has four of 1100 hp each. It is a distinction for the American petroleum industry that, after more than a year of exhaustive tests, Veeco motor oil made from 100% Pennsylvania crude oil won the right to lubricate the new Zeppelin's motors, after serving the Graf Zeppelin in like capacity for six years and the automotive equipment of both Byrd Antarctic expeditions.

All public and passenger rooms on the Hindenburg are heated through use of the engine cooling water. Other amazing details of the aerial giant include the first light-weight duralumin piano, a 5,500,000 candlepower searchlight and a full equipment of in-inflatable rubber life boats. All in all she is the last word in travel above the earth.

New Giant Zeppelin Is A Flying Palace

Details of Her Luxurious Equipment Revealed for First Time

By Latimer Shaw

LUXURIES such as sky travel have never enjoyed before are contained in the new 804 foot Zeppelin, the Hindenburg, world's largest airship, whose May 6th departure from her home nest at Frankfurt am Main for the great naval dirigible hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., stirred the interest of the world.

On board, as commodore of all the Zeppelins was the veteran Dr. Hugo Eckener, the most renowned and experienced pilot of all lighter-than-air liners in actual command of the Hindenburg was Capt. Ernst A. Lehmann, a pupil of Dr. Eckener since 1915.

The Zeppelin carried a crew of more than 50 picked men. Her voyage marked the beginning of the first regular transatlantic passenger and freight service by air.

Nothing approaching the comforts of the Hindenburg has ever before been envisioned for aerial voyaging. In 25 luxurious state rooms she carried 50 passengers twice the capacity of her illustrious predecessor the Graf Zeppelin.

Imagine hot and cold running water on an airship! This is supplied from a folding washstand in each cabin. Every passenger sleeps in a soft individual bed. The ship is liberally equipped with baths and there is a commodious dining hall where guests dine and watch the surface ships pass underneath. A long enclosed promenade deck gives a perfect view of the sea and sky panorama. And a complete electric kitchen in charge of a distinguished chef assures favorable hot meals.

A great novelty on the Hindenburg is a fireproof smoking room with doors opened only from outside or by the steward's push button inside to prevent passengers from carrying lighted cigars and cigarettes to other parts of the ship. A comfortable library with modern books is another feature.

In addition to ten tons of mail and packages, the new airship carries two tons of drinking water, two tons of service water, six tons of water ballast and sixty tons of fuel and five tons of Vedol lubricating oil. Her lifting capacity in the air comes from 7,053,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas in 16 separate cells. The ship weighs 430,950 pounds and carries a total payload of 41,980 pounds.

The eyes of the engineering world are on the Hindenburg's engines and their lubrication because she is the first lighter-than-air ship to be equipped with Diesel oil burning engines, of which she has four of 1100 hp each. It is a distinction for the American petroleum industry that, after more than a year of exhaustive tests, Vedol motor oil made from 100% Pennsylvania crude oil won the right to lubricate the new Zeppelin's motors, after serving the Graf Zeppelin in like capacity for six years and the automotive equipment of both Byrd Antarctic expeditions.

All public and passenger rooms on the Hindenburg are heated through use of the engine cooling water. Other amazing details of the aerial giant include the first light-weight duralumin piano, a 5,500,000 candlepower searchlight and a full equipment of inflatable rubber life boats. All in all she is the last word in travel above the earth.
